

Josh McLean

World Fuel Services
Chief Information Officer

Josh McLean is the Chief Information Officer of World Fuel Services Corporation.

McLean is responsible for the executive leadership of the company's information technology organization including developing and implementing an overall IT strategy to support the company's business strategy.

Prior to World Fuel Services, he held numerous senior IT roles within the banking and finance sector, telecommunications, and insurance industries. McLean has more than 20 years of IT leadership experience.